MAY 1962

The first half of the fiscal year has passed. Here are the leading breeders for the first six months.

Sumption Bros., Frederick, South Dakota, registered 101 Shorthorn cattle.

Wertz Bros., Bancroft, South Dakota, registered 60 Polled Shorthorn cattle.

CAN YOU BEAT THIS IN THE NEXT SIX MONTHS?

APRIL 14TH MEETING OF ADVISORY BOARD

Yep, it was a successful one! Folks came to Omaha determined to discuss our problems and to make recommendations that positively will help in formation of policies and actions of the Association. No single breeder or Shorthorn enthusiast should feel excluded from the benefits of this meeting.

This advisory board consists of all state association presidents or designated representatives. Its purpose is actually to study subjects pertaining to our business and those who attended, from 16 states representing all sections of the country, set themselves to work on problems such as breed improvement; commercial expansion; advertising, promotion and public relations; junior member activities; registrations; state association participation and imports and exports.

Although no attempt is being made here to print each committee resolution, some of the highlights include a realistic view of our cattle with respect to a resistance to Shorthorns that seemingly crops up in some packing centers. One particular recommendation that should command respect is one that proposes all concerned with Shorthorns should make an effort to get fat Shorthorn away to market before extra heavy weights are reached. Elsewhere in this issue of the News is a pointed report from Michigan - it's just the thing the committee had in mind. An important resolution concerning commercial expansion recommends each state association to solicit a listing of commercial females available in that state and furnish the listing to use here for reference in handling inquiries for females for commercial herds. It would help us tremendously in strategic location of saleable commercial females. This committee also suggested that one of the main problems in this category was constant improvement to adequately fill the needs of commercial cattlemen. This improvement it was pointed out, should include quality, smoothness, elimination of excessiveness in briskets and rumps, a broadening and lengthening of rear quarters, ample bone and sound feet and legs - all items deserve strict attention. This does not omit such items as gaining ability, milk in the mothers and weight for age.

It was also resolved by this committee that a uniform system of judging should be adopted by the national Association and further that judges of our shows should be required to place the cattle according to these guide lines or not be allowed to judge. It is our opinion that the suggested score card and subsequent classification program which is being studied by a committee, likely would fill the needs in this category rather sufficiently.

This committee suggested also that we devote a great deal more of our field service to the establishment of commercial herds and promotion in the direction of the commercial cattle field in the future. But that all the promotion should not necessarily rest entirely upon the national Association, instead each state association likely could cooperate in an effort to expand our commercial cattle business.

The advertising and promotion committee suggested that we secure all records from major carcass shows to show that Shorthorn fat steers are equal or superior to other breeds in quality and cutout and get this information disseminated amongst not only packer buyers but retail operators as well as our own breeders and feeders of Shorthorn steers. Furthermore, they recommended that publication be prepared, that is a brochure, telling the story of Shorthorn cattle. It should be attractive, well edited, and should have pictures and charts to more effectively tell the story of Shorthorns and Polled Shorthorns. It was also suggested that advertising skill and technical advice be furnished the state and district associations to help coordinate the national and state advertising. In this connection the Board of Directors have authorized a selection of a public relations man and a campaign nationally be commenced in the way of advertising both Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn cattle.

One of the good suggestions that came from the junior member activities committee was that the national association present a patch or a suitable emblem that could be sewn on a jacket or sweater indicating a membership in the national association. We believe this can easily be accomplished through the state associations and have written to each secretary and president asking their cooperation in getting such a patch delivered to each junior member within that state. They also recommended a manual for fitting, breeding and showing that could be made available to junior members. One that is more up to date than we presently have. Intensive personal contact with county agents and 4-H leaders as well as FFA instructors and leaders was suggested in order to have Shorthorns included in the agenda for judging classes for club boys and girls and it was further recommended that each breeder be made responsible to furnish this sort of classes and invite his county agent to bring the boys and girls of his clubs or his FFA instructor to bring his boys to visit that farm and work out on the classes of cattle which he could furnish. One of the good recommendations that came from this committee, in our estimation, was the fact that a national semen bank would have a great impact on the junior membership of our Association. It is quite evident that this plan would be an incentive to junior members and provide them with easy means of breeding their club heifers. We can also report that such a program is being considered presently by the Shorthorn Club and within a short time we perhaps can make a definite announcement.

The registration promotion committee, while outlining the fact that our registrations must necessarily be increased to fulfill the demand that presently exists for breeding cattle, indicated that district associations join with the national association in an all-out program to reach every breeder and point out to him that the increased profit he can make by registering all good quality calves is evident and furthermore it will help to meet the increasing demand. May we add:

your registration certificates are a credit to your herd and unless these cattle are registered, preferably at the appropriate age, no one can see their heritage.

The state organizations participation committee came up with a series of recommendations particularly aimed at state organizations. Some of these include a membership drive with adequate dues to finance the state organization, help sponsor junior activities, publication of a news letter, preferably quarterly, if at all possible join forces to help subsidize a field man to work in that particular area, start a campaign to get roadsigns for Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorns and, furthermore, each state organization, they recommended, should sponsor at least one sale a year, should also promote district sales, feeder calf sales and female sales and encourage new sales wherever possible. They suggested that percentages might be withheld from every state active sale to finance the organization's activities. In their estimation each state organization should assist breeders in sponsoring FFA and 4-H field days which was also touched upon by one of the other committees. They did not omit the possibility that the Lassie program could assist greatly and that each state association should cooperate fully in that respect.

The import export committee, in view of the fact that American registered cattle are not acceptable in the British Isles, Australia or New Zealand suggested that a new series of fees be applied to importation of cattle to this country. These recommendations are being studied rather carefully and when a final decision has been made details will be furnished. However, it was the opinion of this committee that we should discourage importation of cattle until such time that our certificates are acceptable to other herd books.

As has been indicated, this report is rather a brief of the meeting that was held. From each of those who attended, the expression of a very successful meeting was made and it is the opinion of the Board of Directors that this type of meeting should be held at least once annually. The success of this particular meeting and the splendid cooperation of all of those who attended prompts us to design a program for the next meeting that would also bring forth recommendations from all sections of the country concerning our business. It is fervently hoped that when such another meeting is scheduled we will have excellent attendance and urge each state president to either attend himself or designate a person or persons to be his representative. We of course do not want to exclude anybody interested in Shorthorn or Polled Shorthorn cattle from such a meeting and urge any of you to mark the date when it is announced for the next meeting and plan to attend.

C. J. Davis, Wadena, Iowa, 20 heifers, seven of which are big enough to breed and the others seven to eleven months old.

Carl W. Forck, Glen Haven, Wisconsin, 11 heifers, not quite a year old.

John Martin, Jr., Blackburn, Missouri, 28 Shorthorn females, all bred to have calves shortly.

Fred Schild, Scottsbluff, Nebraska, 13 yearling bulls and a few yearling, open heifers.

POLLED SHORTHORN

Jeffrey R. Goode, Route 2, Box 752, Galt, California

By this time there should be but few Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn breeders in the United States that have not in some way been contacted either by letter or personal calls from some of their State officials or fellow breeders regarding the plans for increasing registration of Shorthorn cattle for the forthcoming year. I have personally called on officers of the eleven Southeastern States to date and in every case have been met with enthusiasm and a spirit of full cooperation.

We as breeders at times become too complacent or are engrossed in other activities and take the attitude, "Well, someone else will do it." I have often wondered what would happen if every breeder of Shorthorn cattle would relax for a bit and ask himself just why he is raising Shorthorn cattle. No doubt, they were his chosen breed of cattle, otherwise, he would be raising some other breed.

For those of you who are in doubt or uncertain, let me just sight a few facts. The Shorthorns as a breed are the oldest of the beef breeds. The other beef breeds are more or less descended or offspring of the first Shorthorn. So we actually have the original product in our breed. A breeder of cattle can well be compared to a potter that takes clay in his hands and with his knowledge and skill shapes this clay into beautiful vases or whatever shape he desires it to be.

The purebred breeder of Shorthorn cattle has the original product in his breed. He can through selection, careful mating and proper care develop beautiful and useful specimens of the breed and can shape them to suit any required needs of the day. To say that other breeds are better is only to say that they are better breeders or more skilled craftsmen at the trade. In other words, our breed will only go as far as we as breeders will take them; they by themselves will go nowhere.

If there is any question of the Shorthorn breed losing out in popularity or decreasing in number, it is not the cattle at fault, it is US the breeders, for we have the original product but are not making full use of their true value.

It, therefore, behooves all of us regardless if we are a small or large breeder, we need to do our best. There is no object of pointing our finger at anyone, for if we do point our finger at someone, we have three fingers pointing back at us. (Look at your hand when you do this and see if this isn't true.)

If we as individual breeders all did our utmost to breed the best cattle possible, cooperate with our fellow breeders and work together as one association, we would soon have our breed heading the list where it rightfully belongs.

In closing, let me leave one thought with you. What we do for ourselves dies with us; what we do for others lives on.

R. G. Heine
Field Representative

Laurence McAlister, Route 4, Rockdale, Indiana, wishes to trade an outstanding bull calf for another calf of a different blood line to use as a herd sire.

YOU LOVE CATTLE

BECAUSE YOU HAVE SHORTHORNS

IT FIGURES

The teacher of the first grade had just read to her pupils some nursery rhymes. To find out whether they had been paying attention, she began asking them questions concerning the rhymes.

"Why did the cow jump over the moon?" she inquired.

Little Johnny at the end of the room spoke up: "Probably because the milk maid had cold fingers."

SHORTHORN STEERS ON THE FAT CATTLE MARKET

By: Dwight McCoy, Manager
Bilmar Farms
Grand Blanc, Michigan

On Saturday, April 7th, the writer accompanied Park Franklin of Clio, Michigan, on a trip to the Detroit Packing Houses to see the results of a three day program sponsored by the National Livestock and Meat Board. Two steers of each breed had been selected and graded on foot, were then slaughtered and hung for observation on the rail. I was quite interested in seeing these steers ribbed down, for the Detroit packers have made no secret of their discrimination against Shorthorn steers in past years. Also, knowing how these Shorthorns had been fed made it doubly interesting to me.

The two Shorthorn steers had been raised and fed by Park Franklin. They were fall calves and nursed their dams through the first winter while the cows were pasturing stalk fields and then finished out the winter on hay. No grain was fed to either the cows or calves. These steers were weaned in the spring and then pastured until October with still no grain. In October they were put in the feedlot on full feed of corn silage. Toward the middle of the feeding period they were started on a limited amount of high moistured corn and cob chop to supplement the silage. One hundred and eighty days after these steers were put in the feedlot and with less than 1,000 pounds of corn each they went to market weighing 1,000 pounds and one graded choice and the other high choice. One of the black steers graded low prime. However, the two black steers had been on feed for three hundred days and had consumed approximately three times as much corn as the Shorthorns.

Loin eye area was very good in the Shorthorns and the marbling and texture as evidenced in the loin eye were very good. Outside fat covering was approximately three-tenths of one inch. The packers were high in their praise of these two steers and remarked they would buy all of the Shorthorns they could get if they would hang like this pair.

I think the feeding program for these two steers tells us why they are the exception rather than the rule. Most of us are guilty of taking too good care of our Shorthorn steers before they go to market. By doing so, we are hurting the Shorthorn reputation as a beef animal and cutting our own profits by feeding too well at an early age.

Shorthorns were bred to thrive and grow on roughage and when handled in that manner were this country's leading breed of beef cattle. Since high concentrate feeding came into style, Shorthorns have literally eaten themselves out of that first place rank.

It is my personal opinion that if we would put our cattle back on a roughage program and let them grow and then feed them on a program similiar to that used by Mr. Franklin we would be well on the right road back. This coupled with a production cost and profit advertising campaign would do a great deal to eliminate some of the resistance to Shorthorns that seemingly is cropping up in several areas. Choice steers without excess fat is what they want and we can supply them at less cost to the producer and the feeder than any other beef breeds.

BOB HEINE REPORTS. . . . .

At the Georgia Livestock Exposition, Mike Sigmon, Social Circle, had the Champion Shorthorn Steer of the Show. The steer was bred by Bruce Hancock. The Reserve Champion Steer was shown by Steve Coody, Dienna, and it was a McGowan bred steer.

Shorthorns were also winners at Tennessee's two largest steer shows, Knoxville and Nashville.

At the East Tennessee Fat Stock Show at Knoxville, Sarah Williams, Concord, had the Grand Champion Steer Over All Breeds. The steer was bred by the University of Kentucky. 500 steers were shown.

Earlier in the year, Sue Davis, Dunlap, had the Grand Champion Steer Over All Breeds at Nashville with 605 steers shown.

FACTS ABOUT OUR ASSOCIATION NOT GENERALLY KNOWN

REGISTRATION OF CALVES RESULTING FROM ARTIFICIAL INSEMINATION

The Directors of this Association passed a rule prohibiting the registration of calves resulting from artificial insemination, conceived after January 1, 1956, except where the owner of the Dam is either owner or One of not to exceed Three co-owners of the Sire.

However, it is possible under certain circumstances to obtain permission from the Executive Committee, to make use of artificial insemination and register the resulting calves. This is particularly true in the case of boys and girls using Shorthorns or Polled Shorthorns for Club Projects, or who are in the process of founding a herd of purebred registered Shorthorns. Also, the privilege is extended to beginners in the business who have only a few females, where it is impossible to secure the natural service of a good bull. To obtain this approval the American Shorthorn Association supplies a form which is completed and returned to the Executive Committee for approval. Approval must be obtained prior to insemination. It is not necessary to specify in advance the name and registry number of the bull from which semen is to be used, nor do we need to know the probable date of insemination.
